THE RAYMOND LION

Seasons come and seasons go but we have a brand new 1952 to do some thing about right now. Shall we pat ourselves on the back and say "well done" or is it better to review the past year with a rather critical aspect to give some basis for real improvement 'n our plann'ng for th's New Year? Do we all make New Year's Resolutions so that they can be broken? Do we neglect to make any so we will not be bothered breaking them? Do we consider that we need none since we have no room for improvement? Whatever we do, remember that one has done evil enough when he has done nothing.

The Lion's Observer from California gives us this thought — "Sometime ago a Missouri Judge sentenced a young man who had been speeding to spend five Sundays working in a hospital where he could see the result of reckless driving. There he had time and opportunity to get a close-up of the pain and misery of foolish driving

Suppose all of us could see the after-affects of all our conduct. A harsh word to the loyal wife who loves you, a slap for the child who knew no better than to get in your way, a hurried remark to a friend who looked for a friendly greeting, a thoughtless critical retort to an employee who did the best she knew, even a dog will hang his head if you are unkind. Think of the sting that harsh and careless words can leave behind. Evil is done by want of thought as well as want of heart.

Let us think in 1952!

A Bride's Prayer

"Oh Father, my heart is filled with happiness so wonderful that I am almost afraid. This is my wedding day, and I pray Thee that the beautiful joy of the morning may never grow dim with years of regret for the step I am about to take. Father, may its memories become more sweet and tender with each passing anniversary. Thou hast sent me one who seems all worthy of my deepest regard. Grant unto me the power to keep him ever true and loving as now. May I prove to be a helpmate, a sweetheart, a friend, a guiding star among all temptations that beset the impulsive hearts of men. Give me the skill to make home the best loved place of all. Help me to make its light shine farther than any glow that would dim the radiance. Let me, I pray Thee, meet the little misunderstandings and cares of my new life bravely. Be with me as I start on my mission of womanhood and stay my path from failure all the way. Bless my wedding day. Sanctify my motherhood, if Thou seest fit to grant me that privilege. Walk Thou with us even to the end of the journey.

"And when my youthful charms are faded and the cares and lessons of life have—left their crouches, let physical fascination give way to greater charm of companionship And so we walk hand in hand down the highway, the Valley of Final Shadow, which we will then be able to lighten with the sunshine of good and happy lives."

Comment Re: Sports

We have witnessed a couple of football games between our home team and our neighbor Raymond. We cannot say that we were altogether pleased with the spirit of the same nor are we prepared at this writing to prescribe a remedy. However, there is not the friendly feeling and goodwill that should prevail. When our visitors come here they should receive the very best treatment that ladies and gentlmen are capable of bestowing. Uncomplimentary remarks should be avoided. Cheering for your favorite or meritorious playing is proper and the use of nicknames inspired by the place which our friends come from, is altogether unbecoming. It matters not how you may be received at the other end, that is not the question and there are two sides to it if it were, the question if, "do we treat our friends as we would like to be treated? The fault, so far as we were capable of observing, is not with the p'ayers but with the bystanders. Our locations make it objectionable in the first place and the thing is bad in any event. It is not calculated to help us along but rather to deter our progress. We hope for the welfare and advancement of the south that we shall have no cause to refer to it hereafter. Let brotherly love continue and let us labor shoulder to shoulder for the common interest of the cause that lies nearest and dearest to our heart. It is the young men that we need in the work, men of muscle, ,brain and power; strong hearted, clear headed,, vigorous and active. Stand by your colors, defend your home town, but don't forget that you are, ,or, that you should be, gentlemen. Gentlemen always treat their visitors in the most kindly way. Don't forget this boys, for you are gentlemen.

PROPER USE OF SURPLUS

Canada's funded debt will be reduced by $275 millions the end of this month. That may mean only a small bite out of a total of 15 billions, but it helps.

In deciding to use a large chunk of its surplus for this purpose the Federal Government is to be commended declares The Financial Post It is following exactly the same policy as that of the thrifty individual who, when he inherits a windfall or enjoys an unexpectedly prosperous year, makes an extra payment on the mortgage.

To have used this surplus for financing the new universal old-age pensions, as has been pressed in some short-sighted quarters, would have been unsound and wrong from every angle.

There is no connection whatever between a definite commitment like old age pensions and a highly fluctuating and temporary source of revenue such as a government surplus. To try to tie them together would be dangerous folly.

Here is a litt'e poem on the idea of throwing the first stone:

A Little Walk Around Yourself

When you are critizing others
And are finding here and there
A fault or two to speak of,
Or a weakness you can tear;
When you're blaming someone's weakness,
Or accusing some of pelf —
It's time that you went out
To take a walk around yourself.

There are a lot of human failures
In the average of us all;
And lots of grave shortcomings
In the short ones and the tall;
But when we think of evils
Men should lay upon the shelves —
It's time we all went out
To take a walk around ourselves.

We need so often in this life
This balancing of scales;
This seeing how much in us wins
And how much in us fails;
But before you judge another
Just to lay him on the shelf —
It would be a splendid plan
To take a walk around yourself.

"And now Uncle Joe, this is one of our big skyscrapers." Uncle Joe had been in the Alberta foothills for a long time and after gazing up at the great structure for some time drawled thoughtfully "You don't say! I'd like to see the durned thing work."

Our new constable was having a bit of a time with tipplers last week. He was rather surprised with the answer from one young swain of local stamp when he suggested that the lad should stop consuming and go home. The lad said very slowly and rather de'iberately, "Misshen, lister, I ony had tee martoonies, and I'm not as much over the affluence of inkahol as some thinkle may peep, and the drunker I stand here the longer I get."

Way To Happiness

Our chief disappointments are embodied in the "Happiness" we plan and strive for with all our might — and yet fail to achieve. Our greatest joys are sudden surprises — the good things that happen when we least expect them. Without thinking we sometimes attribute such joys to accident of luck; but there is always a better explanation. When happiness surprises us, we are happy because we fully realize that the joy has a true connection with a cause in our own past, a forgotten or under-rated deed of our own. Leave enough doors open and plenty of happiness will sneak into your life. These doors may be labeled: Interest in Others, Encouragement for the Despairing, Friendship for those in Temporary Disgrace, Character in Danger, Gratitude Defintely Conveyed, Consideration for the Awkward, Recognition for Strangers.

Speaking of Happiness — did any of you do any more to stimulate the Christmas Spirit than Greep's Electric with the continuous playing of carols? Hats off to Jim and Bill!

Good Grooming FOR MEN by Ralph Edwards

GOOD GROOMING

As children, our parents taught us right from wrong. When we're older, law and order make us obey what we were taught. That's the moral side of life. But does anyone ever tell us right from wrong about the clothes most suited to our own individual personality? Hardly ever.

Why not?

Because there are no specific rules for individuals that can be established for any group, no matter how small, that will suit all individuals of the group.

There are specific rules however, about proper dress, that individuals can apply. No,—we don't mean stuffy Victorian rules, but basic principles of good grooming that can make any man feel better, look better and help him in the "mysteries" of buying clothes for himself.

Convention plays some part in what a man should wear. But regardless of convention, comfort and well-being will go a long way in making him appear well groomed. Color is important too. Pattern has its place and so has personal preference.

Yes, all things are important, but the big thing to remember is, if you want to dress well, dress with care.
